Main Quest · Platforms

Four internships, newest first. The front of each card is what I did; flip it for the project's overall results.

Douyin

QUEST CLEAR

Summer 2026 · Beijing
Brand & Marketing · Government & Tourism Marketing Intern

What I did

- #ShaanxiCalling joint campaign (not the lead): partnership agreement, all materials through several rounds of approval, online venue build, on-site event execution
- Wrote 4 regional voucher campaign plans on my own: budget, resource mix, creator line-up, content calendar
- Creator seeding: picked creators, wrote briefs, kept the main venues launching on time
- Built an AI agent for regional opportunity monitoring from scratch, with a weekly regional report

Project results (whole team)

- #ShaanxiCalling: reach in the hundreds of millions, Shaanxi travel searches up by more than half
- 3-day livestream GMV in the millions, well up year on year
- Dozens of creator posts, tens of millions of views

Source: Whole-project figures, a team effort

Kuaishou

Summer 2025 · Beijing
Government Relations Intern

What I did

- Kuaishou E-commerce “Hidden Gem Towns”, Linyi (first stop of a top-tier platform project): helped plan the launch, a 72-hour origin livestream and a truck parade
- Lead writer of the Linyi wicker-craft industry sub-plan
- Joined venue negotiations for the scenic-area livestream, trading platform traffic for venue access, and coordinated co-posting with local official accounts

Project results (whole team)

- 4.23 billion total project reach
- 31 Kuaishou trending topics

Source: Whole-project figures, a team effort

China Daily

Summer 2024 · Remote
Overseas Social Media · New Media Intern

What I did

- Pitched stories on Chinese tech and industry (e.g. China-made robot dogs) and localised them in Chinese and English
- Short videos end to end: idea, script, edit, caption

Project results (whole team)

- 10+ TikTok videos (main account: 3.4 million followers)
- 13 English posts on X

Sina Weibo

Summer 2024 · Nanjing
KA Project Operations Intern

What I did

- Changshu city brand project: planned offline check-in routes and online hashtag angles
- Coordinated six creators with a million-plus followers each and ran the on-site agenda and KOL pacing
- Topics and KOL matching for Changshu, Kunshan and Xuzhou; competitive analysis of Douyin, RED and Bilibili

Project results (whole team)

- Changshu hashtag: 43.1 million reads, 10 hours on the local trending list
- Two billion-plus total views across the IP matrix

Provincial tourism partnership · Summer 2026

#ShaanxiCalling: a province's summer travel season

A provincial summer travel-spending programme guided by the Shaanxi Department of Culture and Tourism and run by Shaanxi Tourism Group, covering sights and hotels across the province over about four months.

My role
Not the lead, but I did all of this hands-on: resource negotiations, hosting officials, the online venue and offline materials, bringing the platform's mascot into the livestream; internal comms and video; the travel pass and travel fair; weekly project reports

Where
Douyin internship · Summer 2026

Partners
Shaanxi Department of Culture and Tourism, Shaanxi Tourism Group

What I produced

- Early negotiations, securing resources with co-organisers
- Itineraries and briefing packs for visiting officials
- Built the online venue and worked with KOLs; designed offline materials and booths, wrote speeches and decks
- Designed how the platform's mascot joins the livestream, so viewers remember the platform
- Coordinated design of display boards, leaflets, speeches and decks through several rounds of approval
- Internal comms, design and video assets
- Drafted the partnership agreement and saw it through to signing
- Ran the livestream on the day; weekly reports and progress tracking

Project results (whole team)

Hundreds of millions total reach

Over half rise in Shaanxi travel searches

Millions
3-day livestream GMV, well up year on year

What I did and found

- One theme, #ShaanxiCalling, carried by government accounts, media and a matrix of creators
- Vouchers stacked with merchant discounts, a travel pass and perk bundles, connecting “content → claim a voucher → redeem in store → come back”
- City creator parties, city livestream rooms and an online travel fair tie sights, shopping districts and merchants together
- Four phases: warm-up, launch, spending peak, sustained conversion

> What it means for marketing
> The key to a government–business project is that every party gets what it came for: government wants visibility and spending, the state group wants visitors, merchants want sales, the platform wants supply.

City cinema vouchers · Proposal

Tianjin on Screen: getting non-moviegoers into cinemas

A cinema-voucher proposal for the Tianjin Municipal Publicity Department, using the summer, Mid-Autumn and National Day release windows and the travel expo to reach people who don’t normally go to the cinema.

My role

Where
Douyin internship · Summer 2026

Client
Tianjin Municipal Publicity Department

Stage
Proposal

What I produced

- A complete city cinema-voucher proposal: release rounds, tiered denominations, distribution channels and a ticket-stub perk scheme

What I did and found

- Rounds tied to the travel expo launch, Mid-Autumn family viewing and the National Day peak, with unused budget rolled forward based on redemption
- Several denominations for solo, couple and family outings
- Vouchers available at event venues, on merchant pages and in livestreams; at the expo, a livestream sells vouchers while people walk the halls
- “Expo + film” ticket-stub perks that link cinema spending to city tourism

> What it means for marketing
> A voucher's value isn't how many you hand out but how many people it brings in who wouldn't have spent otherwise; release windows and occasions are how you find them.

Industry association partnership · Live shows and city spending

A concert, a trip to a city: a partnership proposal with the China Association of Performing Arts

A proposal to the China Association of Performing Arts: use concerts to lift spending across a city, and use the association's network to bring more show organisers onto the platform.

My role

Where
Douyin internship · Summer 2026

Partner
China Association of Performing Arts

Stage
Partnership proposal

What I produced

- Two partnership models: Concert City, and onboarding show organisers
- An onboarding list across several show types and dozens of candidate productions
- A merchant pitch and a write-up of what the best organisers do

What I did and found

- Concert City: using a Taiyuan concert as the model, one landing page bundles tickets with food, stays and sights, merchants across the city offer stub perks, themed shuttles link shopping districts on concert day, and districts host fan events
- Onboarding organisers: the association's network turned into a prioritised list across several show types and dozens of candidate productions
- Platform benefits rewritten as a pitch merchants understand: commission, traffic and marketing support, one-to-one operations help
- Best practice from leading organisers (seat-picking mini-programs, official accounts with daily livestreams, staff account matrices) written into the pitch

> What it means for marketing
> When a concert sells out, the city's business is just starting: young people travel to a city for one show and spend on food, stays, transport and sights while they're there.

Growth teardown · Pinduoduo

How Pinduoduo turns "playing a game" into "placing an order"

With a fresh account I went through every Pinduoduo game page and logged every tappable element, following where each action leads.

My role	Method
Solo	User-journey walkthrough, element count

What I produced

- Tappable elements on the game pages, sorted into 4 types: 188 in total, with annotated screenshots

Source My own page-by-page walkthrough and count with a new account

What I did and found

- 51 social shares, 43 pop-up prompts, 35 check-ins, 59 limited-time deals and group-buy cashbacks
- A red main button next to a small grey close button; countdown coupons play on fear of missing out
- Sharing takes two steps: tap the button, land in WeChat

> What it means for marketing
> Referral paths should be as short as possible, two steps at most; rewards should appear when the user is "almost done"; a countdown pushes decisions harder than a bigger discount.

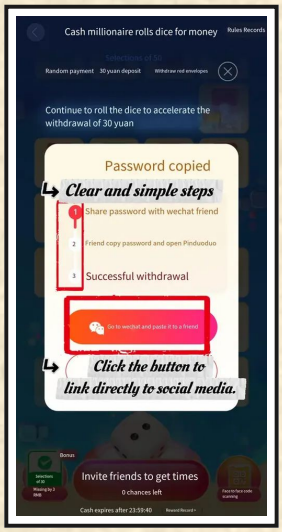

Sample · a Pinduoduo game-page pop-up

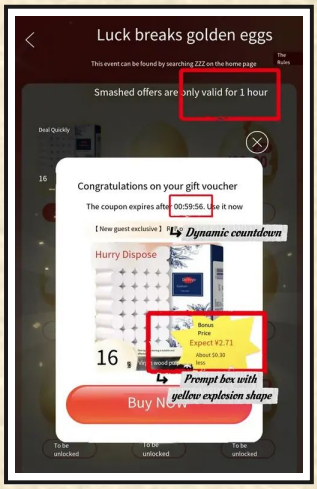

Move the lens: outside is what users see, inside is what I see

Under the lens

1. The close button is small and grey, so leaving is harder
2. "Ultimate item" makes you feel you're about to win
3. A red button with a 2-second countdown pushes you to tap now

- Creators livestreaming science from nature reserves
- #JiangsuEcoCitywalk: four routes you can actually walk

Topic insight · Data journalism

Loud on social, low on demand: is journalism still worth studying?

In 2023 “journalism is a dead end” kept trending. We went looking for data: admission ranks, search indices, word frequency in a Douban “regret” group, plus interviews.

My role
Topic, data and lead writer

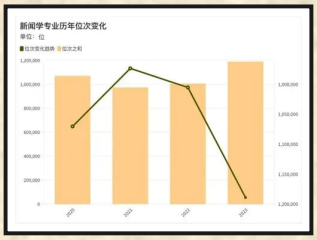

Method
Data analysis, word frequency, interviews

Source Public admission data, search indices, word frequency in Douban “regret” group posts, plus interviews

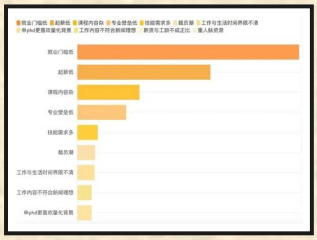

What I did and found

- Trending discussion was loud, but search interest in the major stayed flat
- Journalism admission ranks have slid since 2021, the opposite of computer science and law
- Jobs dominate the “regret” group, and “switching to coding” comes up again and again

> What it means for marketing
> Separate volume from demand before building a strategy; data answers “what”, interviews answer “why”.

Interest rose, then fell

What people really worry about is jobs

Source Account data, September – December 2025

What I did and found

- Built the ideas and persona around being an NCAA men’s singles champion
- Produced breakout champion-themed videos
- Moved fans from Douyin into a private fan group, bringing in customers for a start-up

> What it means for marketing
> An athlete's brand is worth more than views: bring fans into a private group and the content can lead to business.

KOL risk · Reality TV and social media

How a "talented writer" persona collapsed on reality TV

Copywriting creator Fang Qi's comments on season six of a reality show were called empty; viewers then checked her famous quotes word by word and found them stitched together.

My role
Solo research

Subject
Reality TV and social media opinion

Source Public show clips and social media discussion

What I did and found

- Closeness: soothing one-liners make fans feel "she gets me"
- Broken trust: live behaviour doesn't match the persona, and viewers start fact-checking word by word
- Algorithmic amplification: more criticism means more engagement, more reach and a faster fall

> What it means for marketing
> When picking KOLs, check whether the persona holds up across settings, and prepare a response plan before signing.

Creative basics · Copy and storyboards

Rewrites and storyboards: the basics before AIGC

Two drafts of a short story about a mother in advertising, and a storyboard rewritten as AI video prompts.

My role
Original work

Use
Copy, video scripts

What I did and found

- Turned reported speech back into scenes, so readers get angry on their own
- Showed emotion through a folding mirror, messy hair and lipstick, never "sobbed"

- A storyboard for a Wang Wei poem, with framing, camera moves and timing set, rewritten straight into video prompts

> What it means for marketing
> People who can storyboard know best what AI video is missing: rhythm and how shots relate.

Storyboard rewritten as AI video prompts

Shot	My storyboard	Video prompt
3	Medium shot, pan. The rainy season outside the window; grey sky, wet ground, kitchen smoke rising over the woods.	Medium shot, slow pan across a wooden window, rainy season, damp overcast forest, thin kitchen smoke rising above the trees, muted greens
5	Wide shot, crane up. A line of egrets flies over the paddy fields.	Wide shot, crane up over flooded rice paddies, a line of white egrets gliding across the frame, soft rain
9	Close-up, point of view. First light; the hibiscus opens.	Close-up POV, early dawn light, a hibiscus flower slowly opening, shallow depth of field, gentle mist
18	Extreme close-up. Brush characters appear one by one.	Extreme close-up, a calligraphy brush writing Chinese characters stroke by stroke on rice paper, warm candlelight, static camera

My role	Where	Account
New media intern (remote)	China Daily overseas social media department · June – September 2024	Official TikTok account, 3.4 million followers

15K	10+	13
top single-video views	short videos	localised stories

Source Public TikTok view counts

What I did and found

- Did everything on each short video myself: idea, script, edit and caption
- Retold Chinese stories the way English-speaking viewers expect, not line by line
- Built up a repeatable way of adapting stories across cultures

> What it means for marketing
> For overseas content, first work out what the audience already knows, then decide how to tell it; the same story needs rewriting for each audience.
